

About

Air Force Special Warfare (AFSPECWAR) Officers are problem solvers across the spectrum of conflict and crisis, responsible for leading, mission planning, and managing day-to-day operations of Guardian Angel (GA), Tactical Air Control Party, and Special Tactics teams. This career field includes Combat Rescue Officers (CROs), who primarily provide command and control for GA recovery teams performing as aircrew or surface elements to assault, secure, and control the rescue objective area. They help provide a rapid response capability in all environments across the range of military operations. CROs also control terminal area operations during mission execution, including the coordination of trauma care, the conduct of supporting fires, and the evacuation of isolated personnel.
